

Tombeau III for Bruno Schulz (1892-1942)

to have done with the day's account

do not shower just yet in tomorrow's lap

where the street ends someone has drawn would-be stumps deeply cut golem said to rewrite history's slogan, if only you could read the wretched meaning of the eternal, beat him to the punch, this fata morgana this lurid self-parody in the cinnamon shop

would surrender its rotten spread